

Council Accepts By-Laws Changes

The Associated Students Council accepted Constitutions Chairman Anne Collins' recommended amendments to the AS by-laws Monday and turned them over to The Aztec for publication.

The proposed amendments must be published for two weeks before final council action can be taken. After the two-week period the Council will move to adopt them, and the way will be open to go ahead with the general election necessary to change the Articles of Incorporation.

The by-law changes make a quorum of voters at San Diego State 10 per cent of the membership of the Associated Students. Without this definition in the by-laws the Council is not free to continue amendment proceedings on the Articles.

In other business Ed Blessing, reporting for the Publications Board, told the Council that in its last meeting the board had again defeated Stan Stewart's proposed board charter revision. He said that the board had decided to continue operating under the existing charter, while incorporating some features of the proposed revision.

At Monday's meeting the office of Upper Division Representative was declared vacant. Janet Wilson, who held this office, missed her third meeting. Under a current executive order any council member missing three meetings for any excuse is automatically off of the council. The vacancy will be filled by application. Applications are available in the AS office.

Chorus, Orchestra To Give 'Messiah'

Two performances of Handel's "Messiah" will be given by the San Diego State College chorus and symphony orchestra at 3:15 and 8:15 p.m. Sunday in the Men's Gym.

Begun last year, the "Messiah" presentation has been adopted as a traditional part of college Christmas activities. J. Dayton Smith, chairman of the music department, will direct the 300-voice chorus and Paul V. Anderson, assistant professor of music, will assist Smith in directing the orchestra.

Admission to the performances is free but will be by ticket only. Tickets may be obtained without charge by phoning the college music department. Each performance will last an hour and a half.

"Mozart's arrangement will be used," Smith said. "We want to do it the way people are accustomed to hearing it. We have selected those sections which emphasize Christmas aspects as well as others, which are well-known and loved."

Soloists will be Ruth Darrah, Joyce Mahon, and Ellen Marie Welk, sopranos; Alyce Gray and Relene Keller, contraltos; Gerald Shirkey, tenor; and Daniel Odum, bass.

Teaching Forms Due

Applications to Directed Student Teaching, Education 180 and 316A, must be made Friday, Jan. 3, between 4:30 and 5:30 p.m. in ED150.

For further information see Dr. Russell L. Trimmer, assistant professor of education, ED100G.

Junior Elected Aztec Editor for Spring Semester

The Board of Publications Wednesday elected Mike H. Sullivan, 19-year-old junior and Chairman of the Hungarian Scholarship Committee, editor of the Spring Semester Aztec. His appointment is pending the approval of President Malcolm A. Love and the Associated Students Council. Sullivan is currently a reporter on The Aztec.

Sullivan said that he has not yet established a definite policy for The Aztec next semester. He said, however, that he hopes to bridge the gap between student government and student publications, effecting a compromise between the two.

Sullivan said he feels The Aztec editor should have the final word in all matters of editorial policy, and that the faculty adviser should advise and not dictate. He said that it is the duty of the Board of Publications to guide over-all Aztec policy.

Sullivan has named Carol Steinhafel as next semester's news editor and Sharon McMahon as layout editor. Other editorial positions will be held by Bob Beck, Dan Tichonchuk, Fred Jefferis, Paul West, Connie Clark, Galen Knox and Dennis Otsuka.

Larry Townsend, senior, was the other applicant for editor. Lou Corsaletti, senior, was elected business manager.

'Amahl' To Be Given Tomorrow, Dec. 13, 14

"Amahl and the Night Visitors," a Christmas opera, will be presented tomorrow at 10:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. in the Russ Auditorium.

This presentation is part of the San Diego Symphony Children's Concert Series. Two other performances will be sponsored by the SDS Division of Fine Arts on December 13 and 14 at 8:30 p.m. in the Crawford High School Auditorium.

300 At SDS For Speech Tourney

Three hundred students from 23 city and county high schools are participating in the annual San Diego State Invitational High School Speech Tournament here. The tournament started Thursday and will continue today and tomorrow.

Dr. Robert L. Benjamin, assistant professor of speech arts and director of the tournament, said that this will be the first major tournament of the year for local high school speakers. Later meets will be held at California Western University and Brown Military Academy, with the National Forensics League Tournament, at which students may qualify for statewide competition, scheduled on the San Diego State campus in May.

Judges for the tournament will be SDS speech arts faculty members, and students. Student co-chairmen of the meet are Carole Baldauf and Joan Kilpatrick.

"Amahl and the Night Visitors," written by Gian Carlo Menotti, was the first opera commissioned for television. It was premiered on NBC in 1951. Menotti, standing before a painting called "The Adoration of the Magi," in New York's Metropolitan Museum of Art, remembered what he believed to be his own miraculous recovery from being a cripple at the age of four.

Adams to Direct

"The painting and the childhood memory were combined to produce the opera," according to Dr. William J. Adams, assistant professor of speech arts, and stage director for the local production.

Music director for the opera is Cleve Genzlinger, assistant professor of music. The set design is by Don W. Powell, associate professor of speech arts, and the choreography by Evelyn Lockman, associate professor of physical education.

Role Alternated

Frances Matrangola, San Francisco Opera audition winner here last spring, and Shirley Blackwell, a senior music student at San Diego State, will alternate in the role of the mother.

"AMAH! AND THE NIGHT VISITORS," a Christmas opera, will be enacted tomorrow night for the San Diego Symphony's Children's Series at Russ Auditorium and Dec. 13 and 14 at Crawford High School Auditorium for San Diego State students. As the mother, Shirley Blackwell (above) comforts her son Amahl, played by Ken McMillan. The three wise men (left) are played by Dan Odum, Dave Womdsdurf, and Joe Dugan.

Tree Trunk Trouble

The Associated Students Council still isn't paying much attention to lawbreakers on campus.

According to the Associated Students Publicity Code, "any sign defacing college property shall be prohibited.

Examples of defacing property include the use of nails in trees, injuring finished wall surfaces . . .

During the campus elections in October and November the Humanities-Social Science building was literally plastered with campaign posters. The posters were taped on walls and windows.

Candidates for class and council offices had to sign a publicity code statement prepared by the Associated Students Council saying they understood the publicity code and that any violations of this code would disqualify them from office. Some of the candidates violated the code, but they weren't punished.

At the south classroom entrance to the Humanities-Social Science building stands a lone palm tree bearing the wounds of two nails stabbed into its trunk. For two weeks the nails held up a sign advertising a fraternity dance. Yesterday the sign was torn from the tree by the rain and wind.

This poor new tree is not the first to be defaced by signs of campus organizations. But at the present "law enforcement rate" it won't be the last either.

How can students at San Diego State expect a beautiful landscape of trees and shrubs around the buildings, when they attack them with nails and signs? How can the Associated Students Council expect the respect of students on campus when it won't enforce its own rulings?

Some positive punishment for lawbreakers, such as off-campus status for a semester or fines for defacing property, should be legislated by the council before the entire campus and its plants are posterized down.

the SCENE and the HERD

With the desecration of December and the swinging of the solstice, the herd on Montezuma Mesa stomps through the morning chill, sweats through the noon-time, and books through the sleepless night.

And as a "gnawing" sense of being chewed upon inches across the collective body of the herd there in the cold of the early morning, some say there seems to be a bite in the air . . .

Handel's "Messiah," will be presented in two performances Sunday by the College Chorus. In rehearsal recently, J. Dayton Smith, professor of music and director of the College Chorus, told his singers that if they could sing the "Messiah" through perfectly the first time, they could leave. The singers got it right in 10 minutes, but when told to go, they moaned in harmony and stayed for the hour . . .

Then Monday the chorus repeated the whole number without their director, and quite properly . . .

LOVE IN THE LAUNDRY

Last month we got the following letter:

Dear Van Heusen, you rats:

Thanks mucho for breaking up the hottest romance since Scarlet and Rhett. Me and Laundry Mark x428Fy might be honeymooning in Palm Beach today if it wasn't for your so-called smart ideas. Go shoot yourselves in your ulcers. Respectfully yours, Dorothea Jones.

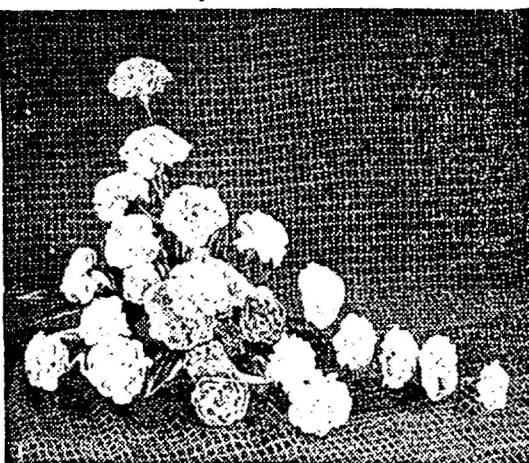

We tracked down the story behind it and found that Miss Jones worked a steam-iron at the Acme Laundry in Eastpox, N. J. Last year, while ironing a shirt belonging to Laundry Mark x428Fy, she had noticed a small piece of paper protruding from the slot on the collar. Curious, she pulled it out and read: "Whoever you are, I love the way you press my shirts. I think I may love you too. Interested?" She blushed, but daringly wrote her answer—"Interested, sorta," and slipped it in the collar-slot. Ten days later came another shirt from x428Fy and, sure enough, another note: "If you can cook like you can write I may be smitten beyond recall. Fascinated?"

This time she almost swooned, and wrote back, "Wow, am I!" Anyhow, note followed hot note and Miss Jones began thinking of turning in her steam iron for a marriage manual. Until one day tragedy struck. x428Fy's shirts arrived as usual, but when Miss Jones turned to the slot she found it sewn-up. Frantic, she tried to rip it open. No luck. She could feel something thin inside, but she couldn't get to it. And that's how it's been ever since!

You see, x428Fy had switched to slotless Van Heusen Collarite shirts—with sewn-in stays! You should, too! These micro-thin stays can't get lost, keep your collar flat, and launder with your shirt! Specify Collarite next time.

And don't feel bad about Miss Jones. She took her unhappiness out in hard work and was promoted to assistant manager. We expect a thank-you note from her any day.

MCRD, Presidio Of SF Next SDS Foes, Aztecs Underdogs

San Diego State's varsity basketball team looks for its first win of the season Friday and Saturday nights, when they meet Marine Corps Recruit Depot and Presidio of San Francisco, respectively, in Aztec Gym.

The Aztecs are definite underdogs in both games, with Presidio, an Army team, being the stronger of the two.

The key to Presidio's strength lies in the fact that they have many experienced and well-seasoned players. Two of these are Tony Psaltis, and Carroll Williams.

Psaltis played three years of varsity ball at the University of Southern California from 1953 to 1956. While there he made honorable Mention All-American and Look Magazine Honorable Mention in 1956. He was second string All-Coast in 1954 and All-Coast in 1956. He was given a berth on the All-Army team last year.

Williams is the backbone of the Presidio team. While at San Jose State College he was Honorable Mention All-American in both the 1954 and 1956 seasons. Last year at Presidio, he was AAU All-American and the leading scorer in the All-Army Tournament, and was also selected to the All-Army team.

Coach George Ziegenfuss, still experimenting to find the best combination of players, will probably start Archie Rambeau and Blake Neal at guards, Ray Waters and Bill Gillespie at forwards, and Steve Evans at center.

Aztecs Lose Second Game Pasadena College Wins 98-72

The Aztecs made only one serious bid as they dropped their second game in as many starts as they fell before Pasadena College 98-72 at Pasadena Tuesday. Guard Blake Neal led the losers attack with 19 points. Pasadena dropped 19 per cent of their floor shots as they coasted over a hapless State defense.

Trailing 36-16 late in the first half, the Aztecs rallied behind the sharp shooting of Veteran guard Arch Rambeau and Freshman Center Steve Evens and pressed to within nine points of Pasadena—and there they stalled, and at the half the Staters were trailing 46-27.

Center Jim Bond hit 17 points to pace the victors, which took an early 13-4 lead. Five other Pasadenans scored in the double figures.

Tonight the Aztecs tangle with the San Diego Marines in Aztec Gym at 8.

Rugby Team Forming; First Meeting Tuesday In Gym

Men interested in forming a Rugby team are asked to attend a meeting in the Gym Tuesday at 11 a.m. The team is also seeking a faculty adviser," Ian Richardson, one of the team founders said.

BASEBALL

All candidates for the freshman and varsity baseball teams are requested to attend an important meeting Tuesday in Aztec Gym, according to varsity coach Charlie Smith.

Important information, such as when practices start, will be explained, so it is important that all persons wishing to try out for each of the teams be there, Smith said.

"The athletic department will furnish all equipment for the team and furnish a place for the team to practice," he said.

If the team is formed it will represent San Diego State against teams from UCLA, Pomona-C Claremont, Pepperdine, and the University of San Diego.

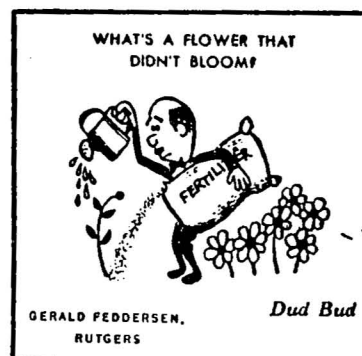

Rugby is a combination of football and soccer according to Richardson.

Gallagher Leads Harriers To Fourth Place In NAIA Finals

By GALEN KNOX

By now everyone knows that State's cross-country team took fourth in the NAIA finals at Omaha last Saturday. And too they know that Bill Gallagher, running the race of his life, led the race for over three miles before weakening and finally finishing fourth. And they know all about the killer schedule that the team faced and beat this season. But what they don't know is the story of the race, how the team rode non-stop for 44 hours in a smoke filled bus. How they arrived in Omaha to be greeted by sub-freezing temperatures, snow, and ice. How that on the day of the race the snow first melted and then froze again leaving a quarter inch of ice for the fellows to run on, and how they had to run in spikes instead of the rubber shoes that they had originally intended to. And how, running on the frozen golf course, the runners slid down the slopes because their spikes wouldn't grip on the ice. And then again the long ride back to San Diego aboard another stuffy smoke-filled bus. This you should tell them, Choc Sportsman said.

In spite of all the efforts of the weather the winning time was almost a full second lower than last year's. In fact last year's winning time wouldn't have even placed 16th in this year's race.

So now everyone knows the story of the race, and the credit that should go to those athletes who so well represented their school last week.

Alumni Trip SDS Cagers By 5 Points

San Diego State's varsity basketball team was stopped short in their 1957-58 debut Saturday night, as the Aztec Alumni edged them 62-57 in Aztec Gym.

Both clubs ended up hitting the same amount of points from the floor, with 21 field goals each. The shooting percentages, however, were poor, especially for the varsity.

Guard Don Hegerle of the Alumni led the scoring in the game with five field goals and seven charity shots for a total of 17 points.

Varsity forward Bill Gillespie was the high scorer for the undergrads, by dumping 12 points on five field goals and two free throws. Next to him was Ray Waters, Blake Neal, and Archie Rambeau, scoring 11, 10, and nine points respectively.

Bob Dalbeck

Where do you get the extra $100,000?

Some critics of business still maintain that profits are too high.

"I wonder if they have any idea of how much more it costs to do business today than it used to! Union Oil is a fairly-typical example.

"In 1927, the company bought an 80,000 barrel storage tank for $25,000. Under Federal Income Tax laws, we were permitted to recover our investment over 30 years, the life of the tank.

"By 1957, when it's time to replace the tank, the company has set aside $25,000. But what has happened? Due mainly to inflation, higher wages and material costs, the tank now costs $125,000.

"Where do you get the extra $100,000? Union Oil gets it out of profits, and by increasing indebtedness from time to time. Out of profit? The fact is, we have to sell $1,250,000 worth of products to clear the $100,000.

"Put another way, the company's entire profit for one day, the total earnings that day on $100,000,000 invested by share owners, and the efforts of over 8,000 people—all went to replace one 80,000 barrel tank, of which we now have over 150.

"Without profits, Union Oil couldn't afford to replace that tank. And without the new tanks and other equipment we have to replace to stay in business, there'd be no jobs for any of us!"

Bob Dalbeck is something of an authority on profits. He is an Assistant Comptroller for the company.

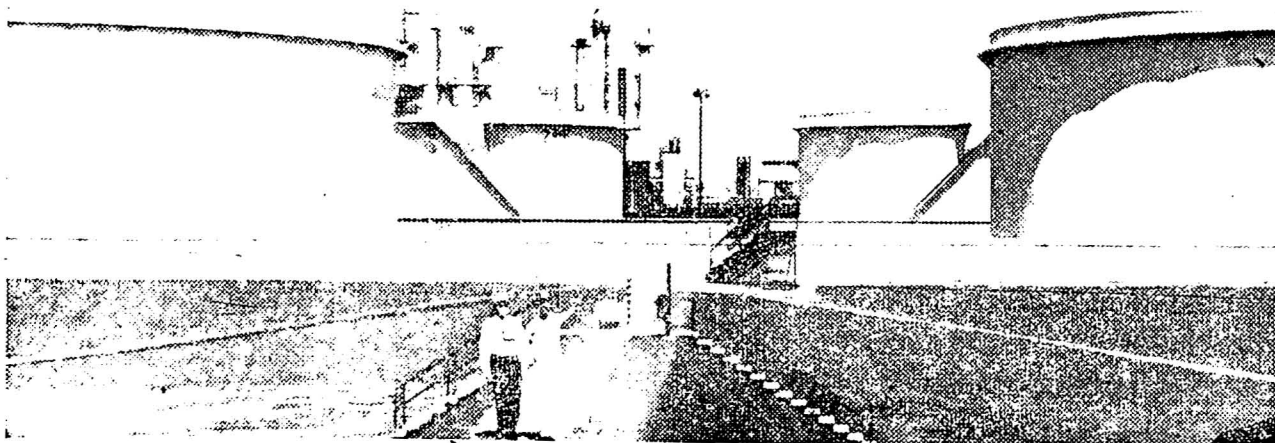

He estimates that only about 19 minutes in the average company's 8-hour working day go to earn a profit. The rest is spent paying off the cost of doing business.

And less than half of those 19 minutes result in dividends to share holders. The other 9 1/2 minutes are reinvested in the business to keep it up to date and competitive.
